Course Description and Objectives

This course introduces students to studies of contemporary China, with an emphasis on the reform era since 1978. There are three primary objectives: 1) to explore important political, cultural and economic trends in contemporary China, with special attention to the evolution of state-society relations; 2) to trace the development of contemporary Chinese studies and expose students to major debates in the field; 3) to promote better understanding of broader themes such as state-society relations, authoritarian politics, communist regimes, and development. The course will explore questions such as: How to understand Chinese politics in the lens of state-society relations? What are the major challenges to the authoritarian regime and what are its responses? What can we learn by examining the undergoing socio-political transition in China? How research on contemporary China draws from and informs social sciences?

Course Requirements and Grading Criteria

Final Grade Ranges:	A 93-100	A- 90-92	B+ 87-89	B 83-86	B- 80-82
	C+ 77-79	C 73-76	C- 70-72	D 60-69	F 0-59

Participation (20%) Please attend classes regularly and actively engage in discussion. Absences will be excused only in cases of serious health problems or family emergencies with documentation.

Reading Responses (15 %) Write three responses (each should be 3 pages, double spaced) based on assigned readings for the weeks of your choice and email them to the class by 5 p.m. three days before the class. The reading response may take a variety of forms, but should include basic ideas and arguments of the readings, and more importantly your own questions, comments, and reflections. You are also welcome to draw on materials outside assigned readings.

Movie Review (5%) Movie Wolf Warrior 2 assigned on March 24.

Book Review Essay (20 %) Write a book review of one or more books related to themes discussed in the course. You may consult the instructor for the book. The essay shall summarize the argument, compare/contrast the book to course readings and other studies, and offer your own critique. Focus on analysis/critique and develop one coherent theme rather than providing a “laundry list.”

Research Paper (40 %) Write a paper on a topic of your choice upon the approval of the instructor. The paper should start from an empirical or theoretical puzzle, present relevant hypotheses based on theories/perspectives. Then discuss how the available evidence supports one hypothesis or another. It can be a full-fledged research paper, or at least a research design. Students will have the opportunity to present their project and solicit feedback from the class before submitting the final paper.

Academic Honesty:

As a University of Georgia student, you have agreed to abide by the University’s academic honesty policy, “A Culture of Honesty,” and the Student Honor Code. All academic work must meet the standards described in “A Culture of Honesty” found at: www.uga.edu/honesty. Lack of knowledge of the academic honesty policy is not a reasonable explanation for a violation. Questions related to course assignments and the academic honesty policy should be directed to the instructor.
